

Problem Statement:- There is a dataset hold the different type of data regarding people like weight,height,no.of children and others kind of data. A insurance company wants to create a software which predict the insurance cost for individual customer using this dataset.so Making a software which calculate individual insurance cost of customer.